Students (1) may request the use of a computer to write diploma exams; computer policies at each writing centre may differ, permission is often granted on a first-come-first-served basis and (2) must notify the Provincial Writing Centre principal of accommodations and unique accommodations required to write provincial assessments. Students may use the same accommodations to write diploma exams that they have used during classroom instruction and assessment.

Writing centres in the Northwest Territories will be designated as needed. Please contact Northwest Territories Education at (867) 920-6235.

Writing centres in Nunavut will be designated as needed. Please contact Nunavut Department of Education at (867) 975-5660 or (867) 473-2681.

*The Edmonton Provincial Writing Centre and Calgary Provincial Writing Centre will ONLY accept mature students who are NOT enrolled in a local/online school, or students who are in a non-funded Home Education program. High schools that operate summer-school programs are expected to administer diploma exams at their local high school and summer-school students must write their August diploma exams at their summer schools or a school authority designated summer-school writing centre.
