

Project Update

New Edmonton Hospital

Overview of New Edmonton Hospital Location (May 2019)

Overview

- The Province has allocated capital funding to begin planning and development of a new community hospital in Edmonton.
- The new Edmonton Hospital is a key part of government's plan to build infrastructure that meet the needs of our provincial health care system.
- The new hospital will be located in south-west Edmonton, near 127th Street and the future Heritage Valley Trail and 28th Avenue.
- The project is currently in the planning phase. It is expected to take approximately ten years to complete planning, design, and construction of the new hospital.
- Services that will be delivered at the new health campus are in alignment with strategic policy and the needs identified by long-range zone planning, and will include a comprehensive mix of acute, emergency, and ambulatory care services that are based on community needs - with potential for future integration with primary care and other community services. Services are anticipated to include:
 - Inpatient Units;
 - Emergency Department;
 - Rehabilitation Services;
 - Diagnostic Treatment;
 - Obstetric Services; and
 - Ambulatory Clinics.

Upcoming Activities

- Preparations for functional programming are in progress. Functional programming of required facilities will occur in 2020, in consultation with key stakeholders.
- The draft Neighborhood Area Structure Planning (NASP) has been prepared by the City of Edmonton in collaboration with the Province.
 - The first round of technical review and public engagement is complete. The second round of technical review and public engagement is underway.
- Upcoming activities include:
 - Functional programming and equipment planning for required facilities to deliver the planned health services on campus;
 - Preparation of procurement documents and contractual agreements for design and construction; and
 - Working with the City of Edmonton on land use planning, including integration with the future LRT extension and station.

Next Steps

- Functional programming of facilities to continue planning the health campus.
- Site planning and procurement of design and construction services.
- Stakeholder engagement in support of the ongoing project planning phase.
