

TRACS

How to Find Your Account Number

---

Alberta Indian Tax Exemption (AITE)

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. If you are a first-time filer, the BIN is the first nine digits mentioned in your registration letter.

Carbon levy

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. If you are a first-time filer, the BIN is mentioned in your registration approval letter.

Corporate income tax (CIT)

The account number is the nine- or ten-digit corporate account number (CAN) found on the correspondence issued by TRA. It is also noted on your notice of assessment/reassessment and statement of account.

Emergency 911 levy

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. If you are a first-time filer, the BIN is mentioned in your registration letter.

Fuel tax

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. If you are a first-time filer, the BIN is mentioned in your registration approval letter. It is also noted on your notice of assessment/reassessment and statement of account.

Health cost recovery

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on the correspondence issued by TRA. It is also noted on your notice of assessment/reassessment and statement of account.

Insurance premiums tax

The account number is the nine- or ten-digit corporate account number (CAN) found on the correspondence issued by TRA. It is also noted on your notice of assessment/reassessment and statement of account.

International Fuel Tax Agreement (IFTA)

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) on your IFTA licence and on any correspondence from TRA regarding your account. Enter the account number without the prefix "AB".

Locomotive fuel user

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. It is also noted on your notice of assessment/reassessment and statement of account.

Propane retailers

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. If you are a first-time filer, the BIN is mentioned in your registration letter. Do not include the suffix "000".

Propane distributors

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. If you are a first-time filer, the BIN is mentioned in your registration letter.

Tax Exempt Fuel Sales (TEFS)

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. Do not include the suffix "000".

Tax Exempt Fuel User (TEFU)

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on your registration letter or the TEFU Application form (AT342).

Tobacco tax collectors

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on correspondence issued by TRA. If you are a first-time filer, the BIN is mentioned in your registration approval letter. It is also noted on your notice of assessment/reassessment and statement of account.

Tourism levy

The account number is the nine-digit business identification number (BIN) found on the tourism levy return (AT317). It is also noted on your notice of assessment/reassessment and statement of account. If you are a first-time filer, the BIN is the first nine digits mentioned in your registration letter.