

DECLARATION

WHEREAS: Multifocal Motor Neuropathy (MMN) is a rare disorder in which focal areas of multiple motor nerves are attacked by one's own immune system, resulting in asymmetrical weakness of a patient's hands and/or limbs and muscle wasting, leading to debilitating weakness or paralysis, loss of independence, and the need for ongoing treatment;

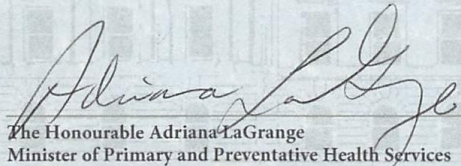

AND WHEREAS: The cause of MMN remains unknown, and these conditions can affect individuals of any gender or ethnic background;

AND WHEREAS: : MMN is chronically progressive often without remission. Earlier diagnosis and treatment and access to rehabilitation services may reverse symptoms and can improve the chances of avoiding permanent residual damage of the nerves;

AND WHEREAS: The Government of Alberta commends the Guillain-Barre Syndrome Chronic Inflammatory Demyelinating Polyneuropathy Foundation of Canada for their work to improve the lives of individuals with MMN by providing support, education, research, and advocacy.
