

Community connections bingo

We're in it together.

A community can take many forms, including neighbours, coworkers, faith groups, sports teams or people connected by shared interests. Building strong community connections before an emergency makes it easier to support one another when it matters most. Use this bingo card to spark conversations, strengthen relationships and take steps toward a more prepared community.

B	I	N	G	O
Introduce yourself to someone you don't know well in your community	Talk with people in your community about the local hazards	Learn one helpful skill someone else has for emergencies	Share one skill or resource you could offer to help in an emergency	Find out if someone in your community has emergency-related skills
Invite a community member on a hazard walk to identify potential risks	Take a neighborhood walk to clear dead branches or dry debris	Talk with your household about how you'll stay in touch during disruptions	Identify one way your community could look out for each other before emergencies	Identify who in your community might need extra support and how you can help
Talk with someone you trust about what helps you feel calm under stress	Learn about a local volunteer or support organization involved in emergencies			Exchange emergency contact info with someone you trust outside your household
Identify one person who could help you if you needed to evacuate	Share a preparedness tip on social media or with your community	Start a conversation to encourage others to prepare for emergencies	Identify a safe place you could go if you had to leave your home	Join or learn about a community group, association or neighbourhood network
Learn what local help is available before, during and after emergencies	Set up a buddy system with a nearby person to check in year-round	Learn how your community shares emergency info and updates	Encourage someone else to create or review their emergency plan	Make a plan to support pets, children or older adults during emergencies

Learn more at
alberta.ca/beprepared

Alberta